Introduction

Think about how you honor others. the people who love you most and the people you love most in the world. How do you honor them?

1. Reflect: How have you benefited from positive choices made by other people around you, such as teachers, mentors and family members? How have the adults in your life helped you learn to make honorable decisions? How can you honor with your choices? Give examples.

2. Create: Watch the video to see Ms. Fariba Mahjour's tips for flower arranging. Make a flower arrangement for someone you honor. You may find blossoms growing in a vegetable patch, a field, on a flowering tree, or even in a bed of weeds. If you cannot find real flowers, create tissue flowers.*
3. Prepare: Practice one of the songs you learned about honor.
4. Share: Present your flower arrangement, along with the song, to honor that special someone such as a grandmother, parent or teacher.
